PREFACE

After some years of research and labor in order to preserve a record of ancestral descent of our paternal grandparents, Calvin Blankenbeckler of German descent and wife Edith Evans of Welsh descent, we send forth this book to do its work. We make no apology for adding one more volume to the endless library of modern times, but pray that it may find a field of usefulness rather than an early grave, a reference for those who may see cause to further investigate and trace the Blankenbeckler-Evans ancestral descent.

We need not tell of the pleasures and difficulties experienced in preparing these pages for the press, but let it be known, however, that we were generously assisted by Judge Redmond S. Cole of Tulsa, Oklahoma, County Clerks and many others which made it possible for us to dedicate this book. We have endeavored to make it a source of information on the Blankenbeckler-Evans and related families.

Two principal asylums of peace and prosperity for the oppressed German colonist to America were Pennsylvania, under the leadership of William Penn, and Virginia, under the valor and courageous leadership of Alexander Spottswood, Governor of Virginia from 1710 to 1722. Many vesels, (on invitation of Penn), loaded with emigrants sailed from their homeland to unload cargoes of colonists at Philadelphia, who later migrated to the Valley of Virginia.

The reader whose eyes fall upon these pages will see the names of a number of persons bearing the surname Blankenbecker in its various spelling and Evans emigrants whose relationship, if any, to Calvin and Edith we have been unable to ascertain.

PART I

INTRODUCTORY

Early Dutch-German and Welsh Settlers

On the death of Sir William Penn, an English admiral, his son William inherited a claim on the English government for 16,000 English pounds, and in settlement of the claim, March 4, 1681, the government granted William Penn the present state of Pennsylvania with the right to found a colony with such laws and regulations as express the views and principles of the Society of Friends or Quakerism, a cruelly persecuted sect of Christians, commonly called Quakers, to which Penn was converted and became a leader who, with many others, were imprisoned for attending Quaker meetings. It is claimed more than 4,000 Quakers were in prison at one time in 1662.

In 1682 William Penn came to America and took possession of his newly acquired territory, surveyed and began settlement at Philadelphia. In the following year he organized his new government and provided places for emigrants who, on his invitation, flocked to Pennsylvania. Many of these early emigrants were of Dutch-German dialect due to fusion of language in the German political divisions: Wurtemberg, Rhenish Bavaria, Baden, Darmstadt, Alsac, and German Switzerland. A company of Dutch-German emigrants arrived October 6, 1683, at Philadelphia and obtained a grant from Penn for a Dutch-German colony and made settlement at Germantown, now the Twenty-second Ward of Philadelphia.

While I have thus far been unable to prove it, I am quite well satisfied some of these early emigrants to Pennsylvania bore the German family name Blankenbecker, (Blankenbaker, Blankenbeckler, Blankenbecler), as the name is still common in parts of Pennsylvania. Many of Welsh dialect bearing the family name Evans in its various spelling were also among early emigrants to Pennsylvania.

Germantown, named for its founders, is noted for its early history making, beautiful surrounding and elegant homes. It was settled in 1683-'4 by Dutch and German emigrants under grant from William Penn. Germantown was the scene of an important battle of the Revolutionary War; has the honor of making the first public protest in America against holding slaves, 1688; establishing the first paper mill, 1690; printing the first American edition of the Bible in German, 1743; and is said to have conducted the first Sunday School on record in the world.

Many German emigrants and descendants migrated south from Pennsylvania and located in the Valley of Virginia. Rockingham and Shenandoah counties are inhabited by many of German origin, who still speak the language of their ancestors. Shenandoah Valley, in the vicinity of Harrisonburg, was almost exclusively settled by Germans from Pennsylvania prior to 1748.

A traveler through that part of Virginia, during the French and Indian War writes, "The low grounds upon the banks of the Shenandoah River are very rich and fertile. They are chiefly raising stock for the troops and sending butter down into the lower parts of the country. I could not but reflect with pleasure on the situation of these people, and think, if there is such a thing as happiness in this life, they enjoyed it. Far from the bustle of the world, they live in the most delightful climate and richest soil imaginable. They are everywhere surrounded with beautiful prospects and sylvan scenes; lofty mountains, transparent streams, falls of water, rich vallies, majestic woods, the whole, interspersed with an infinite variety of flowering shrubs, constitute the landscapes surrounding them. They are subject to few diseases, are generally robust, and live in perfect liberty. They know no wants, and are acquainted with but few vices. Their inexperience of elegance of life precludes any regret that they have not the means of enjoying them; but they possess what many princes would give half their domain for—health, contentment, and tranquility of mind.”

HOWE'S COL. OF VA., pp 468.

The Germans were principally farmers. They depended more upon themselves than upon others. They wielded the mattock, the axe, and maul, and by the power of brawny arms rooted up the grubs, removed saplings, felled the majestic oak, laid low the towering hickory; prostrated, where they grew, the walnut, poplar, chestnut, and cleaved such as suited the purpose into rails for fences—persevered untiringly until the forest was changed into arable fields. They were those of whom Governor Thomas said, 1738, “This province has been for some years the asylum of the distressed Protestants of the Palatinate, and other parts of Germany; and I believe it may be truthfully said, that the present flourishing condition of it is in a great measure owing to the industry of those people: it is not altogether the fertility of the soil, but the number and industry of the people that make a country flourish.”

COL. Reciv. p315.

The chief cause of the immigration of German people to America was persecution. The wars of Lewis XIV and that of the Spanish Succession had almost exhausted Germany, and especially those living along the border. In addition to the wars the extravagance of the rulers and the contention that existed between the different religious sects caused the colonist to sail to the New World.

Governor Spottswood

Alexander Spottswood, a colonel in the English army at the age of twenty-one, whose valor and ability won for him, six years later, 1710, a commission as governor of Virginia, and in June of that year arrived at Williamsburg, then the seat of government, to assume charge of the colony as its governor.

In a short time after assuming charge of the government of the colony, Governor Spottswood became involved in a quarrel with the House of Burgesses because of what he believed to be a lack of public spirit on their part. He was so provoked by their reluctance to provide revenue for the essential needs of the government, that he sharply rebuked them in an address before the assembly. He said in part, "To be plain with you, the true interest of your country is not what you trouble your heads about, * * * I cannot but attribute these miscarriages to the peoples choice of a set of representatives whom Heaven has not endowed with the ordinary qualifications requisite legislators: and therefore I desolve you."

Commenting on the manner in which Spottswood rebuked the House of Burgesses the historian Fiske writes: "In spite of his stinging tongue Spottswood was greatly liked and respected for his ability and honesty and his thoroughly good heart. He was a man sound in every fibre, clear-sighted, shrewd, immensely vigorous, and full of public spirit." For the making of native wine he brought over a colony of Germans and settled them on the south side of Robinson River in what was then Essex now Orange county, Virginia. This was a German Reformed Colony from Nassau-Siegen, consisting of twelve families of forty-two persons who came over in 1714, three years prior to the landing of the German Lutheran Colony of 1717.

The Lutheran Colony of 1717

Among the early German emigrants to Virginia we find the Lutheran Colony of 1717, consisting of about twenty-four families who left their homeland and sailed for Pennsylvania. The vessel stopped in England and they were delayed several weeks in London, because the captain of the ship was imprisoned for some cause. None ever reached Pennsylvania, for a storm drove the ship southward and they landed on the coast of Virginia. They had been on the ocean so long because of the delay in London, that the ship's provisions were insufficient for the voyage and many died of hunger.

The captain of the ship sold his passengers for transportation. Governor Spottswood bought them and they became his indentured servants. He settled them near Germana where three years previous he had established the German Reform Colony for the making of native wine. Here they served Spottswood eight years for their transportation, and according to tradition were employed in his iron mines.

After gaining their freedom in about 1725, this little band of German Lutherans crossed the Rapidan River at Germana Ford, passed the place where Madison county court house now stands, located and patented land on both sides of Robinson River at White Oak Run. Being transplanted to the fertile soil of Robinson River, the colony grew and prospered and became a progressive community, the advance guard and unmistakable proof that civilization was moving westward.

After arriving at their new home, these hardy pioneer settlers, being used to toil and hardships, went earnestly to work erecting rude huts, clearing the forest, cultivating the soil, and building a fort and stockade for protection against hostile Indians. It was in this community by these people that a church was built and a school begun. These and many other things were performed by these early Lutheran pioneers, for which their memory will be cherished.

Among the families of the colony who first patented land on Robinson River and White Oak Run, we find the German family name Blankenbecker. The first twenty-four of the colony who patented land were:

Belthaser Blankenbecker,	June 24, 1726,
Christopher Zimmerman,	June 24, 1726,
George Mayer,	June 24, 1726,
George Woodroof,	June 24, 1726,

Nicholas Yager,	June 24, 1726,
William Carpenter,	June 24, 1726,
Zacharias Fleshman,	June 24, 1726,
John Motz,	June 26, 1726,
John Hansburger,	June 26, 1726.

Later many others of the colony patented land among whom was Pattas Blankenbecker, March 28, 1732.

Pioneer Settlers and New Counties

When Spottswood assumed charge as governor of Virginia, the Northwest Territory, so far as had been explored, was a part of Essex, King William, and King and Queen counties, and when the pioneer settlers moved westward from Williamsburg, then the seat of government, patented land and made settlement in the Valley of Virginia, it became necessary for their convenience as the population increased and penetrated the wilderness to form new counties. A pioneer settler therefore, was often a resident of two or more counties while living in the same community. For example, the German Colony of 1717 who patented land and made settlement in what is now Madison county, Virginia, were residents of Spotsylvania county from 1725 to 1734 when Orange county was cut off from Spotsylvania county; they were residents of Orange county from 1734 to 1748 when Culpeper county was organized and cut off from Orange county; they were citizens of Culpeper county from 1748 to 1792. In 1792 their community was again cut off in a new county when Madison county was cut off from Culpeper county. Since then they have been residents of record in Madison county.

Spotsylvania county was organized December 17, 1720, and cut off from Essex, King William, King and Queen counties and became effective May 1, 1721.

Orange county was organized September 20, 1734, and cut off from Spotsylvania county.

Green county was organized January 24, 1738, and cut off from Orange county.

Frederick county was organized December 15, 1738, and cut off from Orange county.

Augusta county was organized December 14, 1734, and cut off from Orange county.

Culpeper county was organized in 1748, and cut off from Orange county.

Madison county was organized in 1792, and cut off from Culpeper county.

Botetourt county was organized November 28, 1769, and cut off from Augusta county.

Fincastle county was organized April 8, 1772, and cut off from Botetourt county.

Washington county was organized December 7, 1776, and cut off from Fincastle county.

Montgomery county was organized December 7, 1776, and cut off from Fincastle county.

Wythe county was organized December 1, 1789, and cut off from Montgomery county.

Russell county was organized January 6, 1786, and cut off from Washington county.

Smyth County was organized February 23, 1832, and cut off from Washington and Wythe counties.

Scott county was organized November 24, 1814, and cut off from Washington, Russell, and Lee counties.

Tazewell county was organized December 20, 1799, and cut off from Wythe and Russell counties.

NOTE: The records of most of these counties began the following year.

Family Surnames

A surname is a family name added to the first or baptismal name for the purpose of designating family descent and relationship. The first use of a surname is lost in the darkness of ages preceding recorded history, but its general use is of modern heraldry. The first or baptismal name was the only title of address necessary to distinguish the personnels of a single tribe of people so long as they were remotely separated, but when the populace had increased, by the passing of centuries, and friendly tribes began to unite for mutual protection, convivial and social enjoyment, it become necessary to add a family name to the first name to distinguish members of one tribe from those of another tribe bearing the same Christian name.

Origin of Family Names

American family names have come principally from European countries, and have undergone many changes in spelling. Some family surnames are found in many different countries and languages with wide variations of spelling. There are four principal sources from which family names were drawn during the period of formation of European family names.

PATRONYMIC—Family names derived from the given name of the ancestor of the first family bearing the surname, by adding a prefix or suffix to the given name of the ancestor. In English this is shown by a final "s" or the addition of "son", as Stevens, Stevenson; in German by adding "sohn", as Mendelsohn; the Irish by placing before the family name the prefix "Mc" or "O'", as McNamara, O'Brien; and the Welsh prefix "ap" placed before the first name of the ancestor, as ap Evan.

CHARACTERISTIC—Family names drawn from nicknames, descriptive of peculiarities and disposition of the person drawing the family name. Armstrong, Brown, Duggan, Daly, Duffy, Fox, Flanagan, Gray, Hart, Klein, Little, Long, Wise, Young, Zucker, are a few of a long list of family names drawn from nicknames.

LOCALITY—Family names drawn from the locality from which they came. This may be a country, a city, a county, a spot, a town, as Wales, Paris, Cunningham, Kent, Ford, Hill.

OCCUPATION—Many family names drawn from a trade or occupation are among the most common family names in the United States. Smith heads the list of ten most common names in the U. S. with more than a million population, Miller is sixth on the list with a population of more than half a million. Baker, Carpenter, Cook, Ward, Right are common names drawn from occupation.

The German Family Name Blankenbecker

The origin of the German family surname Blankenbecker (becker German for baker) is not definitely known. It may have originated from the union of the first name of the sire with the occupation of the family taking on the surname. The ancient Germans are supposed to have migrated from upper Asia to central Europe in non-historic times when civilization moved westward, gradually working their way into the Roman Empire. Being allowed to settle within its borders, they pushed on further westward and became an ingenuous tribe of fearless people firmly intrenched within Roman boundaries. When the Roman Empire declined and was divided into an eastern and western section, the Germans dominated in the western section and ruled over a vast territory of western Europe from about A. D. 476.

After the Blankenbecker family in Virginia became Americanized, they adopted the English spelling, Blankenbaker, especially in Madison county where they first made permanent settlement. But the descendants of Zachariah Blankenbecker, the progenitor of the Blankenbeckler family of Southwest Virginia, retain the German spelling adding "l" to the last syllable, (beckler).

For further mention of early pioneer Blankenbakers of Virginia, turn to Part VI.

The Welsh Family Name Evans

The Evans branch of my Ancestral Family Tree is patronymic, drawn from the first name of an ancestor, and is of ancient origin. Some historians place the origin of this Welsh family surname back of A. D. 843, and others go back to B. C. about 495.

"The illustrious Welsh surname of Evans, like the family which bears it, is of ancient origin. Most etymologists agree that it is a patronymic—i. e., a name derived from that of an ancestor—for the earliest form of the name on record is ap Evan, which means "son of Evan". Since then the name has appeared under several forms, the variant spellings being due, probably, to the loose orthography of early records.

"Besides its common form the name has taken on the following guises in the course of its long and honorable history: Evens, Evan, Ivans, Avans, Eavens, Evins.

"Some authorities trace the ancestry of this family in Wales back to Marvyn Vrych, King of the Isle of Man, who was killed in 843 A. D. in battle with the King of Meroia.

"Other historians would trace the family's origins back even further. They claim that in the reign of Queen Elizabeth a law was enacted requiring every citizen of the realm to take a surname, and that one branch of the descendants of the Prince of Furlys (a renowned Welsh chieftain) took the surname ap Evan, derived from their present chieftain, whose name was Evan. The Prince of Furlys (say these historians) traced his descent from a Knight of King Arthur's Round Table.

"However this may be, there is definite record of one Ievan (known also as Evan Robert Lewis), who was living in Wales in 1601. He had five sons—John, Cadwalader, Griffith, Owen, and Evan—each using for surname ap Evan."

From—MEDIA RESEARCH BUREAU.

Evans Coat of Arms

The Prince of Furlys bore these arms:

Arms—"Argent, a chevron between three boars' heads coupé sable."

Crest—"On a ducal coronet or a boar's head fessways, erased, sable."

Motto—"Libertas."

For further mention of this illustrious family of Celtic dialect, see Part VIII.

PART II

CALVIN BLANKENBECKLER AND EDITH EVANS

Calvin Blankenbeckler

Calvin, son of Jesse Blankenbeckler was born November 5, 1822, in Rye Valley of that part of Wythe county now known as Smyth county, Virginia, married March 10, 1840, Miss Edith Evans who was ten years his senior, daughter of Greenberry and Nancy Lilly Evans. Calvin, as I remember him, was very industrious and of a restless disposition when not employed, reticent with strangers but amicable and neighborly with all whom he knew. Though warm hearted he only needed to be known to appreciate his friendship, and as he was naturally retiring there were but few really acquainted with him.

Calvin followed different vocations. He was a fine carpenter, a good blacksmith, and an expert cooper and wheelright. He also made chairs and sold them to his neighbors. Some of his make of chairs are still in daily use in Scott county.

As a cooper he made churns, water-casks and water-pails from red cedar and mulberry staves; large wooden cans which were very extensively used at that period of the history of Scott county as containers for sauerkraut, molasses, vinegar, and pickle beans from yellow poplar staves; as a wheelright made spinning wheels, a machine use by housewives for spinning wool, cotton and flax into yarn, cotton and linen threads. He also made the hand loom on which the threads were woven into cloth.

Edith Evans

Edith Evans, wife of Calvin Blankenbeckler, born April 17, 1812, at Little Moccasin Gap in Washington county, Virginia, was a congenial, lovable person whose whole life had been one of usefulness, truly regardful for the happiness of others. She was very tidy and orderly, a close observer and adherer to the precept, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness". Calvin and Edith were members of the Missionary Baptist Church at Nickelsville. They both died in the year 1887 and were buried in the Nickelsville Cemetery. Calvin died January 14, and Edith September 12. A double gravestone marks their resting place.

The marriage of Calvin Blankenbeckler to Edith Evans produced eight children: Nancy Ann, Rebecca, Mary A., John Anderson, William Henderson, George Washington, James, and Charles Quillen. All married except James, who died in youth. Rebecca, John A., and George W. were married twice. Rebecca had a family of four children, John A. fifteen, William H. fifteen, George W. thirteen, and Charles Q. nine. Nancy Ann and Mary A. were barren.

Lineage of Ancestral Descent

The family lineage of ancestral descent of both Calvin and Edith Evans Blankenbeckler has proven to be rather cloudy. I have followed two leads on the Blankenbeckler line either of which leads to a German emigrant, Matthias and Nicholas Blankenbecker, who came over with the German Colony of 1717 and patented land on Robinson River in what is now Madison county, then Spotsylvania county. (see Part I, pages 6 and 7).

The first lead, compiled from family tradition claimed by some of the cousins, is that Calvin Blankenbeckler's father's name was Marion, who was related to if not a son of Zachariah Blankenbecker of Rye Valley, the progenitor of the Blankenbeckler family of Southwest Virginia, who, some of his descendants claim, came from Madison county to Sugar Grove community in Rye Valley, of that part of Wythe county, which later became Smyth county, Virginia.

The only data I have found to corroborate this lead is a Marion Blankenbecker in Madison county, whose name is preserved among the early records of the Hebron Church, a son of Lewis, probably a descendant of the German emigrant Matthias Blankenbecker, whose Will is of record in the Clerk's office of Culpeper county. Matthias had a son Christopher. Christopher Blankenbecker, whose Will is also of record in Culpeper county, mentions a son Lewis. Lewis Blankenbecker, whose family record is preserved in the early records of the Hebron Church of Madison county, had twelve children among whom was a son Marion born in 1785, of whom I have no further data.

It seems very probable that Marion Blankenbecker left Madison county and joined his kin in Rye Valley of Smyth county, probably married in Russell county and later moved down Moccasin Valley into Scott county and bought a tract of land, as some of the cousins claim, on the north side of Clinch Mountain in the vicinity of what is now known as Snowflake, Va. This lead I doubt because I have been unable to get any positive evidence to substantiate the claim Calvin Blankenbeckler's father's name was Marion, or that he (Marion) owned any land in Scott county.

The second lead gathered from court records, which I am quite well satisfied is correct, would indicate Calvin's father was Jesse Blankenbeckler, the fourth son of Zachariah, a descendant of the German emigrant Nicholas Blankenbecker who came over in 1717 and patented land June 24, 1726, on Robinson River.

Nicholas Blankenbecker, of whom we will have something to say in Part VI, had at least six children, the first, a son Zachary. Zachary Blankenbecker, whose Will is of record at Madison, Va. in Madison, county, mentions his wife, Alcey, four sons: Samuel, Jacob, John, and Zachary; one daughter, Mary, who married Michael Fleshman; and a step-daughter, Elizabeth, who married Peter Broyls.

Zachary, Jr. not being required by the Will to help the other heirs care for their mother during her widowhood, and a deed of conveyance of record at Wytheville in Wythe county, Book 4, page 5, from John, Samuel and Jacob Blankenbecker, Peter Broyls and Michael Fleshman of Madison county, made to Zachariah Blankenbecker of Wythe county, to my mind confirms beyond a reasonable doubt the tradition that Zachariah of Rye Valley came from Madison county to Wythe county and was the fourth son of Zachary, Sr. of Madison county.

Calvin Blankenbeckler's father, who married an Odell probably in Russell county, (unfortunately the marriage records of that county prior to 1853 were destroyed when the court house burned in that year), moved from Smyth to Scott county, and bought a tract of land in Moccasin Valley on the north side of Clinch Mountain near Snowflake postoffice, and later sold to Benjamin S. Fugate and moved to Hawkins county, Tenn.

Zachariah Blankenbecker of Rye Valley, father of the Blankenbeckler family of Southwest Virginia, had at least nine children: Aaron, John, George, Jesse, Elizabeth, Nancy, Leah, Sallie, and Polly, of whom further mention is made by Judge Redmond S. Cole of Tulsa, Oklahoma. (See Part VII).

Jesse Blankenbeckler

None of the cousins interviewed could give any information about Jesse. A deed of record at Marion in Smyth county, from Jesse Blankenbeckler and wife Rhoda to Matthias Nukas bearing date of September 13, 1837, and a deed of record at Gate City, in Scott county, Virginia, Deed Book 8, page 8, from Elish Quillin and wife Ruth, of Sullivan county, Tenn., to Jesse Blankenbeckler of Scott county, Virginia, for forty acres of land on the south side of Big Moccasin Creek at the foot of Clinch Mountain, the same land Jesse Blankenbeckler and wife Rhoda, conveyed to Benjamin S. Fugate, October 8, 1857 and which, as some of the cousins claim, Calvin's father sold to Fugate, are evidential records that Jesse Blankenbeckler, son of Zachariah, came from Smyth to Scott county, bought land in Moccasin Valley and later sold it to Benjamin S. Fugate, and that he, not Marion was Calvin's father. As a matter of fact Marion, son of Lewis, and Jesse, son of Zachariah, are not one and the same person.

To corroborate and confirm the statement Jesse was the son of Zachariah, Mrs. Sarah Victoria Scott Wilson of Webb City, Missouri, (78 years old March 16, 1939), daughter of William Armstrong and Martha Jane (Blankenbeckler) Scott, granddaughter of Aaron Blankenbeckler, son of Zachariah, in acknowledging receipt of a letter showing our relationship, says, "Your more than welcome letter received some days ago. Words can't express the joy your letter gave me to know we are really cousins, and your great grandparents were my mother's uncle and aunt. How clear it came to mind, mother speaking of Aunt Rhoda. Now I know who she was speaking of. You told me so much more than I had ever hoped for when I wrote you."

Jesse Blankenbeckler was born probably in Rye Valley of Smyth county prior to 1800, where, we surmise, all his children were born. He was married in Washington county, Virginia, October 9, 1817, to Miss Rhoda Odell, and later he and his wife; two sons, Calvin and William; and probably two daughters, Elizabeth and Jane, migrated from Rye Valley about 1837, bought and entered land in Big Moccasin Valley Scott county, Virginia, adjoining the land of Greenberry Evans who had previously entered land in the Valley near the present site of Snowflake postoffice. They were the first and only family bearing the name Blankenbeckler, we have any definite record of locating in Scott county.

It was here Calvin won the heart and hand of his life companion, Edith Evans, and other members of these families were married. Calvin and Edith were married May 10, 1840; Jane and Jesse Smith June 8, 1844; Elizabeth and John Evans January 18, 1845. These marriages are of record in Scott county, Virginia. As the marriage records of Scott county do not give the name of parents of contracting parties prior to 1853, it is often difficult to trace the ancestry and descent of related families who married previous to that date and left the county.

William Blankenbeckler and his father, Jesse moved to Hawkins county, Tennessee, prior to the war between the states and William served as a private in the Confederate Army. As Jesse remained in Scott county only a few years, and no family record has been found preserved of his family, we know but little about his descendants except Calvin who remained and died in the county.

Greenberry Evans

On the Evans family tree, we have been unable to trace Edith's ancestry beyond her father, Greenberry Evans. We have some data on the early history and origin of the name Evans, but have no positive evidence from which branch of the many emigrants of this illustrious Welsh family Edith descended. In the absence of proof, we think it can safely be said she was a descendant of the Revolutionary War veteran, David Evans, through the lineage of his son Andrew who married Elizabeth Fain at Jonesboro, Tenn., in 1780.

Greenberry Evans was married in Washington county, Va., August 23, 1810, to Miss Nancy Lilly and settled for a time in that county at Little Moccasin Gap where Edith, their first child, was born, and later moved down Moccasin Valley into Scott county, and settled on a farm near, if not adjoining, the farm Jesse Blankenbeckler at one time owned and sold to Benjamin S. Fugate.

In gathering data on the descendants of Greenberry Evans, I have the name of a son John, probably the John Evans, who married January 18, 1845, Elizabeth Blankenbeckler; two daughters: Edith, who married March 10, 1840, Calvin Blankenbeckler, and Rebecca, who married February 4, 1830, William H. Nickels, and probably a son Elijah, who married Rhoda Green. These marriages are on record in Scott county, Greenberry owned part if not all of a 3500 acre tract of land in Moccasin Valley of Scott county. A deed of conveyance April 13, 1832, is of record in that county, Book 4, page 1, from Greenberry and Nancy Evan, to Charles Bond for 70 acres on the north side of Moccasin Creek in what was formally known as Tuch (?) Hollow.

The Family Name Evans

The Welsh family surname Evans is of ancient origin, a petronymic name, derived from the first name of an ancestor. The earliest form of the name on record is ap Evan, which means "son of Evan".

Some authorities trace the family origin of this branch of Celtic dialect back of the year A. D. 843, to Mervyn Vrych, King of the Isle of Man, and others trace the origin back even further. They say the Prince of Furlys, a renowned Welsh chieftain, traced his descent from a Knight of King Arthur's Round Table.

These historians claim in the reign of Queen Elizabeth a law was enacted requiring every citizen of her realm to take on a family surname. One branch of the descendants of Prince Furlys took on the family name ap Evan, derived from their chieftain, Prince Furlys, whose name was Evan. There is record of an Evan Robert Lewis living in Wales as early as 1601, who had five sons: John, Cadwalader, Griffith, Owen, and Evan, each using for family surname ap Evan.

The Evans Coat of Arms

The Prince of Ferlys bore these arms:

ARMS.—"Argent, a chevron between three boars' heads couped sable."

CREST.—"On a ducal coronet or a boar's head fessways, crased, sable."

MOTTO.—"Libertas."

The Evans family had increased at an early date until by the middle of the Eighteenth Century there were estimated to be more than 90,000 persons bearing the name Evans in England alone.

Throughout their long and honorable history in Britain they supplied leadership in the realms of business, politics, war, and professions, which won for them one of the fifty most common names in Great Britain. The history and leadership of the family in America have in no wise been less patriotic and industrious than that of their ancestors.

The first form of this Welsh family surname was ap Evan, but in the course of a long and honorable history of the family, the spelling of the name Evans has varied. The name appears in early records as Even, Evan, Ivans, Avans, Eavens, Evins, Ievans, and finally took on the common form Evans.

Some Early Evans Emigrants

Among the first Evans emigrants we have any account of coming to America were an Evans family from Radnorshire, Wales, who is said to have landed at Philadelphia about 1695. He had two sons, Roger and John.

William and Elizabeth Evans from Wales to Burlington, New Jersey, are apparently the ancestors of most of the Evans family of New Jersey. They had two sons and one daughter: John, Thomas and Jane.

Jenkins Evans came from Wales to Chester county, Penn. about 1717. His wife's name was Sarah, and by her he had seven children: Elizabeth, Rachel, Sarah, Elmor, Mary, Walter, and Jenkins, Jr.

David Evans was another emigrant from Wales to Chester county, Penn., of whom we have but little data. This man may have migrated south and settled in North Carolina or Tennessee and is probably the ancestor of Edith Evans Blankenbeckler.

Lewis Evans, born in Wales in 1666, was an emigrant ancestor of the family in America. He married Alice Thomas about 1738, and soon after their marriage he and his wife came to America and settled in Bucks county, Penn., where he died in 1770, at the ripe old age of 104 years. They had three sons: Thomas, Lewis and William.

David Evans of Charleston, Massachusetts, who married Abejail Walker of Woburn, Massachusetts, and had two sons, David and John, apparently was also an emigrant from Wales.

From these early Evans emigrants a numerous and distinguished posterity has sprung up in America, whose outstanding characteristic traits: patriotism, industry, economy, business, and great love of liberty, inherited from their Welsh sires; their loftier sense of honor, conscientious devotion to duty, energy, thrift, integrity, and piety, brought with them from the mother country, won for them merited distinction not only in social, religious, educational, and political circles, but distinctions in important fields of service. There are records of no less than eighty persons bearing the name Evans who participated in the colonies struggle for independence. Among the many who have distinguished themselves in America are:

Robley Dunglison Evans, American admiral, was born in Floyd county, Va., 1846. He was appointed to the U. S. navy for Utah, and graduated from the U. S. naval academy in 1863; rear-admiral 1901. In the war with Spain, was commander of the Iowa in Sampson's fleet off Santiago, taking an active part in the battle with Cervera's fleet, July 3, 1898; was commander-in-chief at the Asiatic station, October 1902, and in command of the Asiatic expedition, 1908. Died 1912.

Alexander Evins, another emigrant to Pennsylvania and from there to Virginia and the Carolinas, who settled in South Carolina on the Tyger River in what is now Spartanburg county, prior to the Revolutionary War, was an ardent patriot in the struggle for independence, who served as a soldier under "Mad Anthony Wayne." He was wounded so severely in the left shoulder at the storming of Stony Point, as to disable his arm for life. He became so disgusted, because a brother of his had espoused the cause of the King, that he changed the spelling of his surname from "Evans" to "Evins," and the family has retained this mode of spelling ever since. This gallant patriot had six sons, all became leading citizens of South Carolina, four of whom were members of the State legislature.

Edward Payson Evans (1831-1917), author, son of Evan and Mary Evans from North Wales to America.

John Hamilton Evins (1830-1884), Congressman, lieutenant-colonel in the Confederate army, represented the fourth Congressional district of South Carolina in the Forty-fifth Congress and was re-elected for three successive terms.

Frederick William Evans (1808-1893), writer, emigrant from England at the age of twelve.

Henry Clay Evans (1843-1921), Congressman, Postmaster-General, consul-general in London.

John Evans (1814-1897), Governor Colorado Territory.

Oliver Evans (1755-1819), American inventor.

Walter Evans (1842-1923), jurist, Congressman.

Hugh Davy Evans (1792-1868), author.

George Evans, Senator from Maine.

PART III

CALVIN BLANKENBECKLER'S CHILDREN

Calvin and Edith Evans Blankenbeckler had eight children: Nancy Ann, Rebecca, Mary A., John Anderson, William Henderson, George Washington, James Knox, and Charles Quillen.

Nancy Ann, the first child, was born in Scott county, Virginia, and from early childhood made her home with her Aunt Rebecca Evans who married William Henderson Nickels, son of James Nickels and wife Matney, from Tazewell county, Virginia, to that part of Scott county, now known as Nickelsville. James Nickels was a son of Matthias Nickels of Rye Valley Smyth county, Virginia, who married a Walker.

William H. Nickels and brother Walter tried the mercantile business at Nickelsville and went broke. Walter went from there to Bristol and became a prominent and successful hotel proprietor. William H. located at Pattonville in the west end of Scott county, and became a wealthy farmer and stockman.

Nancy Ann Blankenbeckler, after Nickels moved to Pattonville, became acquainted with and married Elias Wallen of Wallen Ridge community. They went from Virginia to Howell county, Missouri, and located at Burnham where they bought land and thereafter resided.

Nancy Ann, for a time, was Burnham's postmistress. She, like her mother, was a close adherer to the precept, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." Although very industrious and would do all kinds of work, it was said of her not a particle of dirt could be seen on her or in her house. She died without issue in 1894, and was buried at Burnham, Missouri.

Rebecca Blankenbeckler, second child, was born near Nickelsville, February 15, 1841, died there May 4, 1878 and was buried in Nickelsville Cemetery. She was twice married, both marriages are on record in the Clerk's office of Scott county.

She married (1), September 4, 1861, George W. Meade, son of William and Malinda Meade. He died without issue. She married (2), May 18, 1866, Littleberry R. Dickenson, a widower, son of John (1795-1861), and Fanny Robinson (1799-1884), Dickenson of Russell county. She had three sons and one daughter: Albert S., Milton B., George J., and Louisa F.

Mary A. Blankenbeckler, third child, was born in Scott county, July 25, 1842, spent her early and middle life in her native county where she became widely known as one of the county's successful school teachers. She was married March 21, 1874, to Archibald Jessee, a widower, son of Rev. David Jessee (1805-1886), a noted Primitive Baptist Minister of Scott county.

Rev. David Jessee was born in Russell county in 1805. It is claimed he was born on Sunday, married on Sunday, preached his first sermon on Sunday and died on Sunday. He married (1), Martha Stenson of Russell county; (2), Martha J. Elam. His father, Rev. David Jessee, Sr. was born in Culpeper county, Virginia.

In the year 1894, Archibald and Mary moved to California and located at Santa Ana, in Orange county where she died October 14, 1914, and was laid to rest in Santa Ana Cemetery by the side of her husband who had died a few years previous.

After the death of her husband, she made her home with her nephew, Charles W. Blankenbeckler, who married Archibald Jessee's granddaughter, Miss Mollie W. Morgan.

The author of this book has in his library an English Grammar by Charles M. Ingersoll, published in 1835, by Uriah Hunt, No. 101 Market Street, Philadelphia, which was presented to him by Mary A. Jessee on her last visit to Nickelsville just before her departure for California in 1894. This book is board bound and in excellent condition. He considers the century old volume quite a treasure.

John Anderson Blankenbeckler, fourth child, was born December 25, 1843, died June 5, 1915. He was a large, well developed man with the strength of a Sampson. Although a man who attended strictly to his own business, he could seldom be convinced of an error, and with his great strength to back him would fight to defend his views.

Politically all his brothers were staunch Republicans but he stood as firm as a stonewall with the Democratic party, was in sympathy with Jeff Davis and the Southern Confederacy, and joined the Southern army in the war between the States. He was a brave soldier who feared nothing in or out of battle.

In '62 he was captured at Cumberland Gap and imprisoned at Camp Chase in Ohio, but was soon transferred from there to Fort Delaware and confined on a small island in the Chesapeake Bay until after the surrender. He was released April 5, 1865, and walked through the State of Virginia to his home at Nickelsville, arriving there sometime in June. As he traveled through Eastern Virginia, he had but little to eat except wild plumbs gathered along the way.

While in service he sent his father a small sum of money with the request that he buy something he might need when he returned home, if ever he got back. With the money his father bought a set of blacksmith tools and had them ready for him when he returned. He made blacksmithing his vocation and followed it half a century.

John Anderson Blankenbeckler was married twice, both marriages are on record in the Clerk's office of Scott county. He married (1), January 10, 1866, Nancy G. Addington, born September 30, 1839, died August 21, 1879, daughter of Rev. William and Elizabeth Stallard Addington. They had eight children: Mary Ellen, Greenberry, George Hopkins, Robert Lee, Margaret, Louise Elizabeth, John Anderson, Jr., and an unnamed infant. He married (2), March 25, 1881, Amanda J. Cullup, born December 1, 1857, died December 17, 1925, daughter of Henry and Susan Steffie Cullup of Culpeper county, Va. They had seven children: Susan Nevada, Thomas G., Dona E., Henry A., Perry W., Nannie G., and Martha B.

William Henderson Blankenbeckler, fifth child, was born August 11, 1845, married December 10, 1863, Huldah Baxter Addington, born February 18, 1843, died September 25, 1900, sister to Nancy G. Addington who married John Anderson Blankenbeckler.

Nancy G. and Huldah B. Addington were daughters of Rev. William and Elizabeth Stallard Addington. Rev. William Addington was a son of Charles Cromwell Addington, the Scott county centenarian, who died at the ripe old age of 104 years, 3 months and 20 days, son of William Addington of English birth, emigrant father of Addington family of Virginia. (See History of Addington Family by Hugh M. Addington).

Elizabeth Stallard was a direct descendant of Walter

Stallard of Culpeper county, Virginia, pioneer founder of the Stallard family of Scott county, by lineage of his son Samuel Stallard who married Jailey Duncan and located on north side of Clinch River in Scott County, near Osborne's Ford, now Dungannon, Va. Her father Raleigh, son of Samuel, married Elizabeth Hutchison, daughter of Nancy Green, niece of Nathaniel Green of Revolutionary War fame.

William H. Blankenbeckler was a cooper and cabinet maker. He followed this vocation as long as his health and activities would permit. In his later years, carried the U. S. Mail from McConnell to Saratoga until these postoffices were discontinued for Rural Delivery from Nickelsville. He died March 28, 1917, and was buried in the family cemetery at J. J. Addington's by the side of his wife who died September 25, 1900. They had sixteen children, all lived to be grown and married but three who died in infancy:

Laura Jane, Charles Washington, Joseph Johnson, Elgiva Eugenia, William Patton, James Knox, Elizabeth Ernestine, John Marion, Lillie Victoria, Henry Robinett, Emma Ritta, Martha Florence, Mary Edith, Lula Elvira, Clara Margaret, and an unnamed infant.

Laura J. had a family of eight children, Charles W. four, Joseph J. nine, William P. ten, John M. thirteen, Emma R. one, Elizabeth E. eight, and Lula E. three. Elgiva E., Mary E. and Clara M. were barren.

George Washington Blankenbeckler, sixth child, was born December 5, 1849, and grew up to manhood in Scott county, Virginia, near Nickelsville. He was a man possessed with a personality and life exemplified with all the Christian traits of man, who unconsciously passed on to all who knew him peace and happiness. He was a fine architect and builder, followed the trade as long as he was able to work; was fond of flowers, cultivated and admired his flower garden as if he could see a Divine revelation in each delicate color; was gifted in both string and vocal music, could play a tune on the violin the first time he tried to play the instrument; was an expert penman, and for many years taught penmanship and vocal music, also night schools in architecture.

George W. was married August 20, 1876, to Miss Nancy J. Jessee of Scott county, Virginia, daughter of Archibald and Mary Ann Percell Jessee. Archibald was a son of Rev. David Jessee, a Primitive Baptist preacher of Scott county. Later George W. with his wife and two children went west to seek his fortune, and located at Downs in Osborn county, Kansas. After some years of peace and happiness at his new location, his wife died April 9, 1888, and was buried at Downs. To this mother were born seven children: Archibald Calvin and Electa Virginia, born in Virginia; Mary Edith, Louisa Leona, Maggie, Nancy Ann, and George, born in Missouri. Maggie and George died in infancy.

After the death of his wife, George W. left Kansas and went to Burnham, Howell county, Missouri, where his sister Nancy Ann Wallen lived, taking his five surviving children with him. His oldest daughter, Electa Virginia, made a visit to Nickelsville, the scene of her childhood, and remained in Scott county with her Aunt Mary Jessee until about the year 1894, then returned to Missouri.

In January 1891, George W. married his second wife, Miss Margaret J. Fleming, born March 24, 1863, daughter of R. D. and Sarah Hibbard Fleming; paternal granddaughter of Sir John Fleming of Scotland who married a Walker claimed to be a descendant from some Indian Tribe; maternal granddaughter of John and Nancy Hibbard. George W. died June 10, 1931, and was buried at Burnham. His second marriage produced five children: May, Maude, Ethel, Rose, and Ruby.

James Knox Blankenbeckler, seventh child, was a kind, obedient, lovable son, born about 1851. He was only permitted to see the snows of about fourteen winters come and go, and the return of spring before he was called to the land of perpetual spring, a beacon light to draw others to the home of the soul where they may rest and be happy in eternity. James Knox was the first called, but since the entire family has joined him over there, and we, their descendants, can only wring our hands in grief and wonder where they are to be comforted in the happy thought: they are not dead, they only sleep. Like the beautiful flowers, scorched by summer's suns or blighted by autumn's frost, wither and apparently die; but they do not die; they only fall to sleep in the lap of winter and will bloom again when "the springtime cometh," they have fallen to sleep on the bosom of Jesus, there to remain until the Father wake them to springtime joys of eternal life.

Charles Quillen Blankenbeckler, eighth child, was born June 8, 1853, married in 1875, at Blountville, Tenn., Martha J. Kilgore of Nickelsville, daughter of Joseph and Mary Meade Kilgore, born August 12, 1861, died September 11, 1932. Nine children: Sarah Edith, Martha Nannie, George Washington, Joseph Patton, Ira Thomas, William W., Robert Everette, Effie Mac, and Dana E.

Charles Q., "Chad" by which name he was best known, was a carpenter, a man with a big warm heart overflowing with life, mirth, and good cheer, which he passed on to others. He possessed a magnificent sense of humor and the rare faculty and knack of venting his mirth on others without a smile.

On one occasion he went to Nickelsville very early on some errand and seeing his friend John H. Hartsock, an early riser, and family at the breakfast table partaking of the appetizing food Mrs. Hartsock had prepared, steaming on the table, he went in the kitchen poured a cup of coffee, fixed himself a place to eat, ate a hearty breakfast and when he had finished his breakfast placed a nail in his plate and went out about his errand without a smile or speaking to any one.

PART IV

CALVIN BLANKENBECKLER'S GRANDCHILDREN

Calvin and Edith Evans Blankenbeckler had not less than fifty-six grandchildren, all Blankenbecklers but four.

—II—

The marriage of Rebecca Blankenbeckler, the second child of Calvin and Edith, to Littleberry R. Dickenson produced four children: Albert S., Milton B., George J., and Louise F.

- 1 1 Albert S. Dickenson, lawyer, born near Nickelsville in Scott county, Virginia, November 20, 1868, married August 4, 1893, Miss Malinda S. Quillen, daughter of William B. and Sarah E. (Wampler) Quillen, maternal descendant of a prominent Kilgore family. (See History of Charles Kilgore of Kings Mountain by Hugh M. Addington). Albert S. is a prominent attorney located at and practicing law in Blackfoot, Idaho. They have one daughter, Mazil and an adopted daughter, Goldie.
- 2 2 Milton B. Dickenson was born on a farm north of Nickelsville December 5, 1870, and was married December 7, 1893, to Mrs. Lucy Hillman-Castle, daughter of Rev. William M. and Huldah Louvend (Dingus) Hillman. Milton B. spent his early and middle life on the farm where he was born. He moved from Nickelsville to Oklahoma in 1916 and is located at Tahlaquah. They have three children: Ruth, Eugene and Annie.
- 3 3 George J. Dickenson, 1874-1897, was born in Scott county on the Dickenson farm north of Nickelsville. He married Miss Monnie Belle McConnell August 5, 1895, daughter of James L. D. and Melvina (Cromley) McConnell. They had two children: Cromley and Martha.
- 4 4 Louise F. Dickenson, 1876-1902, the fourth child and only daughter of Rebecca and Littleberry R., was born on the Dickenson farm 1876, married September 6, 1894, James H. Tony of Tennessee, son of G. W. and Elizabeth Tony. They had three children: Frank, Effie and one died in infancy.

—IV—

The marriage of John Anderson Blankenbeckler, the fourth child of Calvin and Edith, to Nancy G. Addington produced eight children: Mary Ellen, Greenberry, George Hopkins, Robert Lee, Margaret, an infant son, Louise Elizabeth, and John Anderson, Jr.; and his marriage to Amanda J. Cullup seven: Susan Nevada, Thomas G., Dona E., Henry A., Perry W., Nannie G., Martha B.

- 5 1 Mary Ellen Blankenbeckler was born October 10, 1867, in Scott county, Virginia. She was married March 24, 1901, to John A. Kilgore born January 7, 1862, son of Henry M. and Aggie E. (McConnell) Kilgore.

Mary is a studious Bible reader and lover of good wholesome literature. She is very sympathetic, devotes her leisure time to reading and studying the Scriptures. She has a large Scrap Book of choice clippings of both prose and poetry. John A., her husband, is an industrious farmer and farm laborer, a number one citizen in every respect whose morals have ever been above reproach. They have four children: Naomi, Gayzell, Mada, and Daphne Dell.

Heart Throbs From Mary's Scrap Book

A TOUCHING LETTER

"Let us bear our affliction with patience. We wanted the little one, welcomed him to our happy home. He was the first flower to blossom in our bosoms. Light from the window was unfolding his little life, already we were dreaming of the moral training and educational treasures we would give him. Our hearts desire that he might build a life as pure and beautiful as the one he has thus far had was sweet and innocent.

But in accordance of some law whose mysteries are past finding out he has been removed from our bodily sight, and in this visitation of death let us try to make effective with ourselves such reasons as we would present to others. Let us also call to mind the year before our little son was born. We are now in the same condition as then, except the time he was with us is to be counted as one added blessing.

Let us not ungratefully accuse fortune for what was given us, because we could not have all we desired. What we had a while was good, and though we have it no longer let us remember how much of good we still have. Because one page of our book is blotted, let us not forget all the other leaves whose reading is fair and whose pictures are beautiful. We should not be like those who never enjoy what they have, but only bewail what they lose and since he has gone where he feels no pain, let us not indulge in too much grief. The soul is incapable of death and he like a bird not long enough in the cage to become attached to it, is free to fly away to a purer air. For when children die, their souls go at once to a better and diviner state.

Since we cherish a hope like this, let our onward actions be in accord with it, and let us keep our hearts pure and our minds calm. A child is taken, it made the house bright like a gleam of sunshine, it is gone and it is dark. But was having the child even so short a time a little thing? Would we have all the sweet memories blotted out for the sake of escaping this sorrow? Should we not be glad that the little one was ours? if only for a time. Is it not better to have loved and lost, than to never have loved at all?"

NOTE: Two devoted parents lost their only child. When the child died the husband was away from home and could not return for sometime, but immediately wrote a comforting letter to the wife from which the above is taken:

A PLEA FOR THE PRODIGAL GIRL.

I have read of the death of the martyrs;

The story of Peter and Paul,

The story of Luther and Calvin—

I honor and respect them all;

And also old Thomas and Stephen,

Honest and faithful men,

And I've read the sweet story of Jesus

And expect to read it again,

I've read of the Good Samaritan,

Of charity's lesson begun,

And my heart goes out in great pity

To the wayward prodigal son.

1616365

All are so glad to welcome him in,
So quick to forget and forgive,
It makes no difference what he has done,
If he only comes back to live;
They have always prayed for the prodigal boy
Since ever the world had begun,
The joy, the glory, the forgiveness,
Of the returning wayward son,
But poets all seem to forget to write
Of the saddest thing in the world—
They are not so eager to welcome back
The poor little prodigal girl.

Just why she has turned out crooked—
She happened to find the 'right one,'
Who had the slick tongue of a Judas—
And that was your prodigal son.
Though the boy is upheld and forgiven,
It is common all over the world,
That you scornfully point out for gossip
The poor little prodigal girl.
There is nothing so truly pathetic
As the life of the maidens who fall
And if you search down to the bottom
You will find man the cause of it all.

But he is led back in society
And nursed with the tenderest care,
Held up to the world as a hero,
And mentioned in fervent prayer,
While she is cast out from her loved ones,
Out in the hard, cruel world,
And everyone points out and scorns her,
The poor little prodigal girl.
Now, as has been said quite often,
And we will repeat it again,
That 'the lowest of fallen women
Are better than some of the men.' "

PRAYER

It was the hours Gladstone spent alone with God in prayer that made him the wise and safe leader of England. It was the hours

Spurgeon spent alone in prayer that made him the greatest preacher since the days of Paul. It was in the hour when defeat seemed inevitable that Joshua stood alone in prayer to God, and the answer was a glorious victory over the five kings.

It was the hours Elijah communed with God that brought fire from the sky which convinced Ahab that the Lord was God. It was the hour Jonah spent with Him in the deep sea when in the belly of the whale that prepared him to preach repentance to the people of Nineveh. It was the hours Daniel spent in the upper chamber alone with God that made him a prince among men, and also saved him in the den of lions. It was the hours the disciples spent in the upper room in waiting upon the Lord which enabled them to preach three thousand souls into the kingdom at Pentecost. It was the hours the Apostle Paul spent alone in prayer that enabled him to make Felix tremble and to make King Agrippa exclaim, "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian!" And, my friend, if you would be a winner of souls, you must spend much time alone in prayer with God.

Elias was a man subject to like passions as we are, and he prayed earnestly that it might not rain; and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six months.

And he prayed again, and the heavens gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit. James 5:17-18.—Selected.

6 2 Greenberry Blankenbeckler born and died in 1868.

7 3 George Hopkins Blankenbeckler, a well informed person, farmer and dealer in land, was born September 4, 1869, in Scott county, and grew to manhood near the town of Nickelsville. He married June 25, 1896, Ellen Zora Hartsock born January 16, 1870, daughter of Aaron and Maggie (Dorton) Hartsock. She died without issue May 30, 1936.

God Is My Refuge

(By Lula Blankenbeckler Rothwell)

God is my refuge in the hour of need,
While I believe Him, I am safe indeed:
Storms may arise and mighty thunders roll,
He is the refuge of my helpless soul.

Tho dark the night, and dangerous the hour,
Strong is His grace and wonderful His power:
Tho I'm forsaken, helpless and alone,
He will be with me for I am His own.

His crown appears before my heavenward eyes
Pointing the way to mansions in the skies:
Guiding me over treacherous rock and shoal,
He is the refuge of my trusting soul.

Note: The above Song Poem is sung to the tune "Abide With Me".

Nicholas, Matthias and Balthasar Blankenbecker Families

These three pioneer Blankenbecker families came from Germany in 1717 and located on the south side of the Rapidan River near Germanna in what is now Orange then Essex county, Virginia, and in about 1724 crossed the Rapidan River and located on the Robinson River in what is Madison county, Virginia, where they patented land June 24, 1726. They have numerous descendants married into the Smith, Carpenter, Crisler, Clore, Gar, Yager, Utz, Wayland, Fisher, Suther, House, Thomas, Weaver, Wilhoit, Aty, Broyles, and other pioneer families.

A Few of Many Descendants and Marriages of these Virginia Pioneer Families

Nicholas and Apolonia Descendants

Nicholas and Apolonia Blankenbecker had not less than three sons and one daughter: Zachary, Michael, Jacob, and Dorothy.

Zachary Blankenbecker, son of Nicholas and Apolonia (?), and wife Abey had at least four sons, one daughter and a step-daughter proven by his will of record in the clerk's office of Madison county, Virginia. (Will Book 1, pages 65 and 66). Children:

John Blankenbecker and wife, Mary Margaret, had a son John Jr. and a daughter Magdaline. John Jr. and wife, Elizabeth had a son Aaron who married 1807, Eliza Aty. Their son Simeon, born 1782, married 1805, Julia Crisler and their son Simeon born 1806, married 1833, Tabitha Carpenter, and to this mother was born 1835, George Madison Blankenbecker who married (1), in 1853, Sarah Jane Blankenbecker; (2), 1871, Fannie E. Watson. John Jr. also had a daughter Sally, who married 1806, Joseph Wilhoit, son of Aaron Wilhoit.

Samuel Blankenbecker, thought to be the son of Zachary and Abey, married 1791, Charlotte Leatherer, and they had ten children: Elizabeth born 1792, Elenora, born 1793; Joel, born 1795, married 1819, Susan House, daughter of Michael House; Phoebe, born 1797; Jemimah, born 1799; Abraham, born 1801; Isaac, born 1802; Rhoda, born 1804; Julia, born 1806; Jacob, born 1808.

Jacob Blankenbecker. No data.

Mary Blankenbecker, married Michael Fleshman.

Elizabeth (step-daughter), married Peter Broyles.

Zachary Blenkenbecker. It is reasonably certain that this man is the same Blankenbecker who migrated from Madison county and located in Rye Valley, the founder of the Blankenbeckler family of Southwest Virginia, whose will is of record in Wythe county.

Blankenbecker-Gar Family

Michael Blankenbecker, son of Nicholas and Apolonia, married Elizabeth Barbara Gar, daughter of Andreas Gar who married Eve Seidleman, born in Bavara, Germany, daughter of George and Barbara Seidleman. Michael and Elizabeth had seven children:

Jemima Blankenbecker, born 1745 married (1), M. Crigler, (2), Absalom Utz.

Mary Blankenbecker, born 1747, married Daniel Wilhoit.

Margaret Blankenbecker, born 1749, married John Clore.

Elizabeth Blankenbecker, born 1753, married John Wilhoit.

Leonor Blankenbecker, born 1755, married Elias Crisler.

Christena Blankenbecker, born 1760, married Ephraim Utz.

Rosanna Blankenbecker, born 1763, married 1787, Lewis Wilhoit.

Jacob Blankenbecker, son of Nicholas and Apolonia, married (1), Elizabeth Thomas and had two children: Maria, born 1788 and Daniel, born 1790; (2), Hannah Weaver and had three children: Jemima, born 1794; Phileman, born 1796; and Maria Barbara, born 1798.

Dorothy Blankenbecker, daughter of Nicholas and Apolonia, married Lorenz Gar, son of Andreas Gar and Eve Seidleman. Dorothy was a sister to Michael Blankenbecker, and Lorenz Gar a brother to Elizabeth Barbara Gar, granddaughter of George and Barbara Seidleman. They had four children:

John Gar, born 1744, died 1808, married Margaret Wilhoit.

Andrew Gar, born 1750, died 1811, married Christena Wilhoit.

Eve Gar and Elizabeth Gar.

Margaret Blankenbecker, daughter of Michael and Elizabeth Barbara, and Granddaughter of Nicholas and Apolonia, married John Clore, Jr., son of John Clore, Sr. who married Dorothy Cafer, daughter of Michael Cafer of the German Colony of 1717.

Eleanor Blankenbecker, daughter of Michael and Elizabeth Barbara, married Elias Crisler, son of Henry and Elizabeth Weaver Crisler. Henry Crisler was son of Theobald Chrisler from Saxony Germany to Virginia in 1717, and married Rosina Gaar.

Christena Blankenbecker daughter of Michael and Elizabeth Barbara Blankenbecker, and granddaughter of Nicholas and Apolonia, married Ephriam Utz. Unable to trace Utz's ancestry.

Samuel Blankenbecker, probably the son of Zachary and Abey Blankenbecker, son of Nicholas and Apolonia, married Amy Yager, daughter of (blind) John who married Mary Wilhoit, daughter of John and Margaret Weaver Wilhoit. John Yager was the son of Adam Yager, whose parents, Nicholas and Mary Yager came from Germany to Virginia in 1717.

Matthias and Mary Descendants

Milly Blankenbecker, daughter of Jonas Blankenbecker, son of Christopher and Christenia Blankenbecker, married John Carpenter. Christopher Blankenbecker was the son of Matthias and Mary Blankenbecker.

Jonas Blankenbecker, Jr. son of Jonas Sr. and wife Elizabeth, married Mary Smith, daughter of William Downing and Diana Yager Smith. Diana Yager was daughter of (blind) John Yager, son of Adam Yager, and grandson of Nicholas and Mary Yager from Germany to Virginia in 1717. Jonas Blankenbecker, Sr., was son of Christopher and Christenia Blankenbecker, and grandson of Matthias and Mary, the emigrant. William Downing Smith was son of Downing Smith and Catherine Beam.

Balthasar and Anne Margaret Descendants

Elizabeth Blankenbecker, daughter of Balthasar and Anne Margaret Blankenbecker, married Adam Wayland.

Anne Barbara Blankenbecker, daughter of Belthasar and Anne Margaret Blankenbecker, married Lewis Fisher.

PART VII

THE BLANKENBECKLER FAMILY OF SMYTH COUNTY, VIRGINIA

(By REDMOND S. COLE, Box 92, TULSA, OKLA.)

Since 1925 the author of this sketch has been engaged in an extensive search to discover the ancestral lines of the Coles, and the persons intermarried with that family. Numerous trips were made to Virginia, and diligent search was made among all available records, where ever they could be found. The close family ties of the Blankenbecklers and the Coles, made it advisable to assemble data on this first named family, and in time it was discovered that all the Blankenbecklers of Wythe, Smyth and Washington counties were of one family, that of Zachariah Blankenbeckler, who early emigrated to wythe county.

No data has been found showing when or where Zachariah Blankenbeckler was born, but it seems certain that he came from Madison county, Virginia, as a family of that name numerously inhabited that region. If he participated in any war, no record of same has as yet been found. It is assumed that he was buried in the vicinity of Sugar Grove, Smyth county, Virginia, as he was certainly living in that region when he died. The lands on which he resided passed to his sons Aaron and John. The name of his wife is not known. She evidently predeceased him as no mention was made of her in his will dated March 22, 1824, and probated at Wytheville, Sept. 14, 1824. (Wythe County Wills 3, p. 77). No family Bible or other record seems to have been preserved by his descendants. The list of children here used is taken from his will. It may or may not be complete. Only three of his children are thought to have remained for long, near the ancestral home. It was, therefore, impossible to fully trace the families which left the Sugar Grove region. Sugar Grove is in Rye Valley, which until 1832, was a part of Wythe county. In 1832 Smyth county was organized out of Wythe and Washington counties, and Rye Valley since then has been a part of Smyth county. On this account all of the very early records dealing with these Blankenbecklers were found at Wytheville, county seat of Wythe.

Children of Zachariah Blankenbeckler

- 1 Aaron, married Elizabeth Williams. More later.
- 2 John Blankenbeckler, seems certainly to have been the same John who in Washington county, Virginia, on February 14, 1822, married Sallie Cole. She is identified as the daughter of Hugh and Martha (Cole) Cole. She was therefore granddaughter of both Sampson and Zacheus Cole, brothers, and sons of Joseph Cole and his wife Freelove Mason. If John Blankenceckler left issue, no trace of same can now be found. The feeling is that he may have removed to Kentucky.
- 3 George, married (1), Sarah James; (2), Sallie Williams. More later.
- 4 Jesse married in Washington county, Virginia, Oct. 9, 1817, Rhoda Odle. John Griffiths of Sugar Grove advised me that Jesse "got away", meaning that he left the ancestral home. He sold his land in Smyth county, Virginia, in 1837 and appears to have located in Scott county, Virginia.
- 5 Elizabeth married in Wythe county, Virginia, January 9, 1806, Thomas (or was this Silas) Quillen. Little has been found dealing with this family. Cousins furnished names of three children, namely: Wash, Elijah and Thurzy. Thurzy married John D. Long. Elijah appears to have moved to Scott county, Virginia. It appears reasonably certain that Wash was George Washington Quillen, born April 3, 1812, died May 7, 1886, married in 1832, Lucinda Williams, born December 12, 1813, died April 9, 1857. This last couple lived in Rye Valley and were the parents of twelve children, but records could be discovered proving marriage of no more than three of these.

(a) Thurzy Ann, born 1833, married John W. Lang.

(b) Mary Carolina, born 1838, married John W. Lang.

(c) Amanda Jane, born 1846, married William Lafayette Whisman born 1839, died 1917, and resided at Sugar Grove. He was the son of Jacob King and Alpha (Shupe) Whisman, grandson of Peter Shupe. Amanda Jane Whisman was mother of ten children: James Wiley, Mary E., Hiram Thompson, John P., Jacob L., George C., Alpha Irene, Addey H., Harry H., and Anna N.

6 Nancy was married in Wythe county, Virginia, June 22, 1808, to Robert Johnson.

7 Leah married John Griffiths. More later.

8 Sallie, married in Wythe county, Virginia, December 17, 1818, Samuel Cloud.

4 Polly, married in Wythe county, Virginia, January 11, 1825, Jacob Kettering. This is probably the same name as Catron, a family that numerously inhabited that region at that and a later date. No trace of this family could be found.

Family of Aaron Blankenbeckler

(Son of Zachariah)

Aaron Blankenbeckler is thought to be the oldest of the children of Zachariah Blankenbeckler. He lived and died in Rye Valley. He married in Wythe county, Virginia, December 15, 1814, Elizabeth, daughter of Richard and Keziah (Cole) Williams. She was born in Rye Valley, April 1794 and died there July 1, 1866.

Richard Williams, father of Elizabeth, appears certainly to have been the son of Joseph and Catherine (Edwards) Williams. Samuel Williams died in the Valley in 1830. Keziah Cole, mother of Elizabeth, born 1774, died 1845, was daughter of Sampson Cole, born 1755, died 1833, by his first wife, Miss Cole, whose given name is now unknown.

Sampson Cole, above was a descendant of a New England family of Coles, founded by James Cole of Plymouth, Mass. James Cole was born near London, England, about 1600, came to America in 1632, with his wife Mary and sons James and Hugh. In 1633 he located at Plymouth, where he died about 1690. His wife was Mary Lobel, daughter of Matthew Lobel, a distinguished physician of London. Her grandfather was Jean De-Lobel, a lawyer of Lille, France. Hugh Cole, son of James and Mary, was born in England in 1627, came to America with his parents, and in 1654, married Mary, daughter of Richard and Ann (Shelly) Foxwell.

Hugh Cole II, son of Hugh and Mary (Foxwell) Cole, was born at Plymouth, Mass., 1658, married 1681, Deborah, daughter of Joseph and Deborah (Allen) Buckland. Joseph Buckland was son of William Buckland, the emigrant, and his wife Mary Bosworth. William Buckland and his wife accompanied her father Edward Bosworth to America on the Elizabeth Dorcas in 1634. Edward Bosworth died on board ship, just as it landed, never to set foot on the land of his choice.

Hugh Cole III, son of Hugh and Deborah (Buckland) Cole, was born at Swansea, Mass., 1683, married 1705, Martha, daughter of Reverend Samuel Luther, who in turn was son of Captain John Luther, emigrant. This Hugh Cole III, was father of Joseph Cole, born Swansea, Mass., 1716, and died in Washington county, Virginia, in 1785. He had moved from Swansea to Rhode Island, later to New York, and came to the Holston Settlements before the Revolution. His wife was Freeclove Mason, also of Swansea. Their four sons: Joseph, Sampson, Zacheus and Hugh, all resided in Washington county, Virginia, and Sampson Cole was the Sampson, heretofore mentioned.

About 1734, a Daniel Cole, from England located in Plymouth. He was not known to be related to James Cole of that settlement. He died at Eastham in 1694, leaving a son Israel Cole, born 1653, who married Mrs. Mary Rodgers, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Snow) Paine. Mary Snow was daughter of Nicholas Snow, the emigrant, and his wife Constance Hopkins, who with her father, Stephen Hopkins, came to Plymouth in the Mayflower December 1620. Israel Cole II, son of Israel Cole, born 1685, left a son named Israel III, born about 1716. He married Remember Burgess of Eastham, and about 1750 left Eastham, going to New York, later to the Holston Settlements. He died 1792, leaving a will of record at Abingdon. One of his daughters, given name not known, married Sampson Cole, and Dorcas Cole, either a daughter or granddaughter of Israel Cole, married (1) Rev. Nathaniel McClure and (2) Jacob Rouse.

Aaron Blankenbeckler

Aaron Blankenbeckler had at least seven children by his first wife Elizabeth. On her death he married (2), Amanda, daughter of Joseph Dunford by whom he seems to have had at least five other children: Esther, Sarah, Remember Harris, Mrs. William A. Scott, and John Blankenbeckler. (Washington Co., Deeds 10, p. 446).

Children of Aaron Blankenbeckler:

- 1 William, married Miss DeBord and moved to Tennessee.
- 2 Betsy, married Jesse Earnest. More later.
- 3 Frank, is said to have moved to Iowa.

- 4 Jackson Marion, married (1), Margaret Robinson and (2), Mollia Hilliard. More later.
- 5 Hiram, married Elizabeth A. Wells. More later.
- 6 Roseanna, married Harrison Chisenhall. More later.
- 7 Keziab, married in Wythe county, Virginia, 1858, Ned Faris. She was then 34, and he aged 53. They probably had no issue.

Betsy Blankenbeckler

Betsy Blankenbeckler, daughter of Aaron, lived to be eighty-six. She married Jesse Earnest and they resided in Smyth county.

Children of Betsy Blankenbeckler Earnest:

- 1 Amanda Jane, married Daniel, son of Andrew Hopkins.
- 2 David Marion, born in Washington county, Virginia, March 4, 1848, was a farmer. Resided near Thomas Bridge, Smyth county, Virginia. He married in Grayson county, Virginia, November 7, 1870, Caroline Thurzy, daughter of John and Polly (Kirk) Vaught. She was born April 1, 1846, died May 29, 1922. They had:
 - 1 Robert Lee, born 1872, married Minnie Snyder.
 - 2 Mary Missouri Elizabeth, b. 1879, m. William C. Blevins.
 - 3 John Wesley, born 1881, married Hallie Allen.
 - 4 Lessie Ann, b. 1884, m. William L. Blankenbeckler.
 - 5 David Emery, b. 1886, m. Bessie M. Hopkins.
- 3 Rachel, married John R. DeBord.
- 4 John Aaron, born in Smyth county, February 26, 1856, married Ellen Missouri, daughter of George Allen and Polly (Wolfe) Buchanan. She was born April 27, 1858, died May 16, 1925. He was a carpenter, residing at Marion, Va. Children:
 - 1 Mary Elizabeth, born 1878, married John Houdashell.
 - 2 John William, born 1879, married Mary Luther Caldwell.
 - 3 Mittie Alice, born 1881, married Milton Copenhaver.
 - 4 Emery Iverson, born 1884.
 - 5 Glenn Allen, b. 1888.
 - 6 Jesse Earnest, born 1888, died young.
 - 7 Clyde Robert, born 1893.
 - 8 Elma Estell, born 1899, married Clinton Glass.
 - 9 Nell Virginia, born 1902.

- 5 Norman Earnest, married-----Vernon.
- 6 Mary Emeline Earnest, born May 22, 1852, died September 24, 1927, married in Smyth county, January 7, 1868, William, son of George W. and Nancy Skinner (Hill) Martin. Children:
 - 1 George Lafayette, born 1870, married Sarah Sabastian.
 - 2 Elizabeth Rachel, born 1871, married Robert Buchanan.
 - 3 Henry Edward, born 1873, married Maude Myers.
 - 4 Mary Caroline, born 1875, died in infancy.
 - 5 John Jesse, born 1876, married Kittie Hopkins.
 - 6 Susan Candace, born 1878, married A. H. Lowe.
 - 7 Charles Franklin, born 1880, married Hattie King.
 - 8 Flora Idabell, born 1882, married Oscar Hutton.
 - 9 William Daniel, born 1885.
 - 10 Rebecca Jane, born 1887, married A. J. Helton.
 - 11 Bertha Ada, born 1890, married Bud Buchanan.
- 7 Daniel Earnest, married-----Heffley.
- 8 Sarah Earnest, married (1), Johnston; (2), Marion Parish.
- 9 Sue Earnest, married-----Pierce.

Jackson Marion Blankenbeckler

Jackson Marion Blankenbeckler, son of Aaron, was born about 1825, died February 7, 1893. He was married in 1859 to Margaret, daughter of Moore and Catherine (Faris) Robinson. She was born November 19, 1830 and died March, 1873. He married August 23, 1874, his second wife, Mary ElizaLeth Hilliard, born June 28, 1842. She was living 1929 in Johnson county, Tennessee. He was a member of Company C, Tennessee Volunteers, U. S. A. during Civil War.

Children of Jackson Marion Blankenbeckler

- 1 James Richard Blankenbeckler, was born 1861, married Nancy Emeline Luttrell, and lived at Mountain City, Tenn.
- 2 Robert Henry Blankenbeckler, was born 1864, married 1887, Olivene, daughter of W. T. Shupe. She was born 1870. They resided near Mountain City, Tennessee, and had a family of ten children:

William and James M. Blankenbeckler

We are indebted to Hon. Hugh Blanken of Bulls Gap, Tenn. member of the Tennessee Legislature from Hawkins county, for the following information and data on the families of William Blankenbeckler, son of Aaron, and James M. Blankenbeckler, son of George from Smyth county, Virginia, to Tennessee.

William Blankenbeckler

Many years ago William Blankenbeckler who married a Miss DeBord, came from Virginia and settled in Hancock county, Tenn. He had two sons and three daughters: Ira, Perry, Martha, Sarah and Elizabeth.

Ira Blankenbeckler married a Miss Johns and they have five children: Lydia married a Mr. Seal; George married a Miss Price and has a son John; Thomas married a Miss Green; L. K. married a Miss Green; and Mary.

Perry Blankenbeckler, son of William, served two or three terms as sheriff of Hancock county, Tennessee, and one term in the Tennessee Legislature from Hancock county. He married a Miss Tount and has a son William A. Blanken of Morristown, Tenn.

Martha Blankenbeckler married a Mr. Brenler.

Sarah Blankenbeckler married a Mr. Herk.

Elizbeth Blankenbeckler married a Mr. Herk.

James M. Blankenbeckler

As to my ancestry, I can not trace it back farther than my grandfather, James M. Blankenbeckler. He came from Marion, Smyth county, Virginia, about 1850 and settled in Hawkins county, Tennessee. He had two son: George W. (my father) and Joseph. I have one living brother, William Henry Blanken, and one living sister, Mrs. P. A. Brooks. I have one son and two daughters: George Hugh, Sue and Laura Mae. I am my father's youngest child, born March 15, 1880.

Joseph W. Blankenbeckler

Joseph W. Blankenbeckler, son of George, married Herriett Jane Patterson and to this mother eight children were born:

Sampson Newton Blankenbeckler, Sugar Grove, Va.

Sallie Blankenbeckler Calhoun, deceased.

Mary Blankenbeckler Kirk, deceased.

Hattie Blankenbeckler Tilson, deceased.

Jennie Blankenbeckler Campbell, Marion, Va.

Rev. J. W. Blankenbeckler, Chilhowie, Va.

Rev. Emmett Zachariah Blankenbeckler Mountain City, Tenn.

David McDonald Blankenbeckler, Statesburry, W. Va.

Rev. E. Z. Blankenbeckler married Ida Mae Gates. They have two children: George K. Blankenbeckler, Captain 117th Infantry Tennessee National Guard, and Mrs. Ora Lee Calhoun of Bristol, Tenn. She has four children: Duane, Lois, Mary and Martha.

Note: This data on the family of Joseph W. Blankenbeckler is from Rev. E. Z. Blankenbeckler.

PART VIII

ADDINGTON, KILGORE AND McCONNELL FAMILIES

A Few Scott County Families Whose Descendants Married
Calvin Blankenbeckler Descendants

Family of Rev. William Addington

Rev. William Addington third son and fifth child of Charles Cromwell Addington by his marriage to Anna Doty, was born in Copper Creek Valley of Scott county, Virginia, May 6, 1812. He was married in Scott county January 23, 1836, to Elizabeth Stallard, born May 22, 1813, died May 29, 1899, daughter of Raleigh Stallard by marriage to Elizabeth Hutchinson. Her grandfather Samuel Stallard was born in Culpeper county, Virginia. He married Jailey Duncan and they lived and died on a farm in Clinch Valley of Scott county, near the town of Dungannon, Va. and were buried there. Rev. William and Elizabeth Addington lived and died in the neighborhood where he was born and raised a family of eleven children. He died September 20, 1882, and was the second buried in the family cemetery. His father Charles Cromwell Addington was born in Culpeper county, Virginia, October 10, 1777, and his great grandfather William Addington was born in London, England, about 1750. He came to America about the year 1770, and later married in Culpeper county Margaret Cromwell.

In the early 1780's William and family moved from Culpeper county to what is now known as Russell county, Virginia and located in the valley north of the mountain near Hyders Gap. Here his son Charles Cromwell was married January 2, 1802, to Anna Doty, daughter of a family of that name who migrated from the Yadkin River region of North Carolina to Russell county. Soon after their marriage, Charles Cromwell and Anna moved to what is now Scott county, Virginia, and finally settled on a farm in Copper Creek Valley where he raised a family of twelve children by his marriage to Anna Doty and four by his marriage March 15, 1840, to Sarah Butcher, his second wife. He died at his home on Copper Creek January 18, 1882, at the ripe old age of fivescore and four years. He was buried in the Addington Cemetery.

Children and Marriage

The family record, if one existed, of Rev. William and Elizabeth Addington cannot be found. This has created a confusion among the cousins as to the order and correct date of birth of his children. Although dates of birth, gathered from cousins and family records, do not correspond with the age of some of the girls appearing on the marriage records, it seems reasonably certain the following data gathered and compiled from marriage records and family records, where they could be found, is the true order of birth, and I am well satisfied the dates of birth given are correct.

1 Charles W. Addington

Charles W. Addington, the first child and son of Rev. William and Elizabeth Addington, the only one of their eleven children who never married, was born in Scott county, Virginia, September 29, 1837, died April 2, 1881. His monument marks the first grave of the family cemetery.

2 Nancy G. Addington

Nancy G. Addington, the second child and first daughter of Rev. William and Elizabeth Addington, was born, married and died in Scott county, Virginia. She was born September 30, 1838, married January 9, 1866, to John A. Blankenbeckler, son of Calvin and Edith Blankenbeckler. List of her children on page 34.

3 Jane B. Addington

Jane B. Addington, third child and second daughter of Rev. William and Elizabeth Addington, was born September 16, 1839, and died May 4, 1885. She was married in Scott county, Virginia, November 6, 1865, to Daniel Marion Porter, a widower, born 1840, son of Samuel Porter. She was born, resided and died in Scott county, Virginia. To this mother eight children were born:

- 1 William P. Porter married Ida Mason.
- 2 Samuel M. Porter married Lucy H. Powers.

In my brief research for data on Silas and Nancy J. Easterling families, I find in the early Marriage Records of Scott county, Va., the names of Silas Easterling who married June 18, 1834, Amy Moon (or was this Moore); Henry Easterling, who married May 20, 1843, Katherine Hartsock; Rebecca Easterling, who married January 15, 1840, Thomas Vickers; Catherine Easterling, who married Charles Roberts; and Louemina Easterling, who married September 16, 1847, Reuben D. Wolfe. No doubt they were closely related to Silas Easterling who married Rebecca Elam and Nancy J. Easterling who married Joseph Addington, probably brothers and sisters of Nancy J.

Family of Andrew Evans

It seem certain that Edith Evans who married Calvin Blankenbeckler was a descendant of the Revolutionary War Veteran Andrew Evans, whose record is on file with the D. A. R. Registrar General, Washington, D. C. He was born in 1759, married at Jonesboro, Tennessee, in 1780, to Elizabeth Fain, died in 1840.

Andrew Evans had not less than ten children: David married Elizabeth McCollough; Jesse married Hettie Newell; Samuel married Majorie Moddrell; William married Maximilla Cunningham; Rachel married James Burcham; Nancy married Lewis Morgan; Elizabeth married Matthew Wilson; James married Jane Newell; John Fair and Joel Evans. John Fair Evans was killed by Indians.

Mrs. Roy W. Adams of 1701, Vermont Ave., Cornersville, Ind., from whom most of the data on the family of Andrew Evans was obtained was a daughter of Charles Evans son of Syrenus D. Evans and Nancy Cushing. Syrenus D. Evans was son of James Evans and Jane Newell, and grandson of Andrew and Elizabeth Fain Evans. Andrew Evans was probably a son of David Evans, was also a Revolutionary War Veteran.

James Manson was son of William Manson and Jane Alexander.

Early Records of Lutheran Hebron Church Madison County

The first records of the Hebron Lutheran Church and the early records of Madison county are wrote in German Script. German students in translating the German name Blankenbecker into English have used various spellings of the name. Some students have translated and spell the name, Blunnenbucher, Blankenbecker, Blankenbiker, Plunketpeler, Blankenbeker, Blankenbaker.

A certified copy of the Wills of Matthias and Balthasar Blankenbecker, two of the German Colony of 1717 of record in Culpeper county, spells the name Blankenbecker, and the Clerk of Madison county in certifying a copy of the Will of Zachary Blankenbecker, interprets and spells the name Blankenbiker.

The following data was taken from the Hebron Lutheran Church records. "It is difficult for me to read German Script" says Charles J. Ross, Clerk of Madison county, who copied this data from this type of writing.

Thomas and Jemima Blankenbaker. Children: Joel born 1791, Jesse born 1794, Amelia born 1798.

Ten First Blankenbaker Marriages of Record In Madison County

The ten first Blankenbaker marriages of record in Madison county (spelled exactly as of record).

MEN	DATE	WOMEN
Sim Blankenbaker	1805	Julia Crisler
Aaron Blankenbaker	1807	Eliza Aty
Ephriam Blankenbaker	1813	Eliz Smith
Joel Blankenbaker	1819	Susan House
Elias Blankenbaker	1820	Lucinda Suther
Jos Wilhoit	1806	Sallie Blankenbaker
Henry Haines	1807	Hannah Blankenbaker
Pendleton Yowell	1808	Eliza Blankenbaker
Adam Harstsook	1809	Christnor Blankenbaker
Jno. Carpenter	1810	Millie Blankenbaker

Aaron Blankenbaker was son of John Blankenbaker, Susan House was daughter of Michie House; Sally Blankenbaker was daughter of John Blankenbaker; Joseph Wilhoit was son of Aaron Wilhoit; Milly Blankenbaker was daughter of Jonas Blankenbaker; Elias Blankenbaker who married Lucinda Suther, the records show nothing in regard to the parents. You can readily see the incompleteness of these early marriage records.

Prior to 1792, we naturally would go to the marriage records of Culpeper county, the mother county of Madison, and her ancestral counties for the marriage of these German Lutheran families of the 1717 German Colony, as Madison county was formed and cut off from Culpeper county in 1792; Culpeper from Orange county in 1748; Orange from Spotsylvania county in 1734; Spotsylvania from Essex county in 1720; Essex was formed from the northern part of old Rappahannock county in 1692.

The Clerk of Culpeper county informs me there is no record relative to Blankenbecker marriages in his office prior to 1787, and between 1787 and 1793 there are records of five Blankenbecker marriages: James, Jacob, Samuel, Peggy and Rosanna. The Clerk of Spotsylvania county Says, No marriages prior to 1795. Essex county has no marriage records prior to 1804 except a few in an order book. Records formerly were marriage bonds filed, and it is believed they were destroyed when the Courthouse was built in 1848.
